THE RAILROADS

Washington, D. C., November—The railroad association appealed to all the powers of Government, including the President, to force a cut of 15 per cent in wages at the very time that the Administration was bending its energies in support of an entirely contradictory measure—the labor standards act, the purpose of which is to raise wages.

Of course the railroads lost, and despite their protestations, there is good reason to question the sincerity of their wage-cut plan. No one really expected a railroad strike at any time.

The railway association has talked down on great loans to the lines—"but with a smile," according to the daily press. The gestures of despair following the report of the President's committee did not have any appearance of being genuine. Everyone is interested in the welfare of the railroads, because they are so important a part of the country, itself.

If the railroad attitude was not so vague the efforts to save them might stand more chances to succeed.

THE ELECTION

In the general election held on Tuesday, some of the states that got into the habit of voting Republican during and following the Civil War returned to that habit, electing several senators and representatives in congress. New York, however, remained true to the President and his policies. Kentucky gave Senator Barkley a record majority, which puts him in the front rank as a presidential possibility in 1940.

A FINER WEST LIBERTY

West Liberty has been booming like a western town for two or three years. Modern brick store buildings have been erected. Lovely new brick residences have been built and beautifully furnished. There are well kept lawns with their background of shrubbery and flowers.

There are many modern bungalows built of other material, beautifully furnished, lovely yards and provision made for just as lovely back yard, vegetable gardens. These improvements are not only on the North and South Main Street, but on Water Street, Court Street, Broadway, Prestonsburg, Glen Avenue, on the other side of Long Branch.

Two of the latest houses to be remodelled inside and out and improved with modern conveniences are on South Main Street owned by D. R. Keeton and Auty McClain. Mrs. McClain says this is the third time this has been her home. The improvements made before have been completely changed and brought up to date.

The NYA boys under the supervision of B. E. Whitt and cooperating with the property owners have put in more concrete sidewalks on many streets.

The entire county is proud of the fine new school building and are anxiously anticipating a beautiful campus.

This office has awaited in vain the privilege of running in our columns a cut of our fine remodeled Court-house.

A beautiful new county jail is almost completed. While we deplore the necessity of such a structure, we do rejoice that our jailer will have suitable living quarters and that the prisoners will be housed as befitting human beings.

Now, may all good citizens join with the school, churches, Kiwanis and lodges in making our town an ideal home for our children and young people.

FARMERS' COLUMN

THE FARM AND HOME

Oatmeal mush recipe: Heat a little less than four cups of milk in a double-boiler. Add a teaspoon of salt and a cup of oatmeal. Cook directly over heat, stirring constantly until the mush thickens, and then cover and cook over water for 45 minutes.

Rich in flavor, poor in vitamins pickles have a place in the diet only as appetizers. Pickles and relishes may relieve the monotony in winter meals, but they are a poor substitute for vitamins, minerals and energy building foods.

In asking the Experiment Station or a county agent about tobacco soil tell how the land has been fertilized, limed, manured and cropped in recent years, and about how much to bacco and corn it will produce in its present condition.

A windbreak for the hives is usually enough protection for bees in the average Kentucky winter. However, cheap individual hive shields can be made from roofing paper. Suggestions on wintering bees are given in Kentucky College of Agriculture Circular 288.

In wiring the bathroom, all lights should be operated from wall switches, in the interests of safety. In all events, it should not be possible to reach a light while sitting or standing in the bath tub.

With cheap feed, there is no excuse for not keeping pullets in good condition this fall. Keep grain and mash before them in separate hoppers. Poorly fleshed pullets molt and cease laying when eggs are high in price.

FARM WATER SYSTEMS

Interest in having running water is so great on farms where electricity has been made available through the extension of electric lines, that the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky has issued a circular discussing the installation and use of electrically operated water systems.

With the advent of electricity, farm women want running water in the kitchen and bathroom. Farmers will find it convenient and economical to use electricity to pump water for their livestock.

The circular gives information on various kinds of water systems, how to make a selection, the kind of pumps needed, storage tanks, electric motors, sewage disposal, and cost of operating water systems. Copies may be had from county and home agents or by writing to the college.

SELL "RIPE" TURKEYS

Sell turkeys when they are "ripe." So advises Dr. J. Holmes Martin of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, pointing out that turkeys in the northern part of the United States mature early enough to sell in September, and that the finishing season moves from north to south. Dr. Martin says there should be a continuous supply of turkeys on the market from September to March.

Turkeys begin to put on a finish when about 24 weeks old, and really fatten up for the market when between 24 and 28 weeks. A finished turkey has few if any pin feathers, according to Dr. Martin. By parting the feathers along the side of the breast or under a wing, it is easy to determine if there are any pin feathers. Also the flesh or skin between the feathers is white or yellow when the turkey is "ripe." Blue skin indicates that the bird is not fat and needs further finish to sell well.

In comparing the prices of live and dressed turkeys, Dr. Martin says to keep in mind the "rule of 13." This means that 10 pounds of live birds when bled and plucked will weigh 13 pounds less, and when full grown and heads and feet removed will lose another 13 pounds. In other words, turkey ready for the oven weighs 26 percent less than turkey on foot.

No Snakes on Isle of Man
The Isle of Man, like Ireland, is free of snakes and toads.

KEEP RARE FURNITURE

Encouraged by Miss Elenor Clark, home demonstration agent, farm women in Lincoln county, Kentucky, are refreshing and keeping their old furniture. Sales of antiques from farm homes are almost a thing of the past.

A training school was held for community leaders, in a project called, "Renewing Old Furniture," in which the women were shown how to remove paint and varnish from cherry, walnut and other fine wood. How many women have discovered that they have furniture of rare value right in their own houses.

WASHINGTON NOTES

HOUSING

Nathan Straus, Administrator, United States Housing Authority, says there are now more than 200 communities, embracing more than 33,000,000 people, with the Housing Authority participating or preparing to participate in the low-rent housing program. Nearly $600,000,000 have been set aside for use by 142 local Housing Authorities, 52 of which have begun preliminary operations looking to the construction of the first of the 150,000 or more homes that will be built under the U. S. H. A.'s $800,000,000 low-cost housing program.

EMPLOYMENT

Employment figures for September, made public the last part of October, show that employment in non-agricultural occupations increased by 440,000 in September. In this connection, the American Federation of Labor estimates that 10,539,000 persons were unemployed in this country during September.

SHIPS

The United States Maritime Commission has planned for the construction of three fast $10,000,000 liners to travel across the Pacific from Seattle to the Orient. The ships, which will have a speed of twenty-three knots, will cut a week from the present round-trip time from the West Coast to the Orient. They will have accommodations for 800 passengers. Plans for the new ships follow in the wake of the luxurious new service to South America which has had enthusiastic reception. Incidentally, Rear Admiral Harry S. Land, now Chairman of the Maritime Commission, points out that during 1937 only thirty-five per cent of the country's $6,500,000,000 foreign trade, and only thirty per cent of the 366,500 Americans who traveled overseas, were carried by American ships.

WPA

Aubrey Williams, acting WPA administrator, insists that the work relief rolls, year by year, follow the trend of industrial employment and agricultural distress and have no relation to political demand. Critics, says Mr. Williams, fail to note that approximately 3,300,000 persons lost their jobs in private industry from late 1937 to midsummer 1938 and that WPA employment, while increasing 1,700,000 since the low point in 1937, leaves some 10,000,000 workers unemployed.

UTILITIES

Leaders of the major utility systems, after announcing new equipment purchases of almost $100,000,000, declare that if business improvement continues at the present rate, expenditures for new equipment next year might reach $500,000,000. They point out that this is no basis for any boom in stock values because average annual outlay for generating and other equipment has been around $1,000,000,000.

GESTURE

What the Assistant Secretary of the Navy refers to as the greatest gesture ever made by a nation to the cause of peace was made by the United States, under the terms of the treaty of Washington in 1922, when this country scrapped 30 large naval vessels, amounting to over 750,000 tons, and valued at about $300,000,000.

RAILROADS

Following the report of the fact-finding Emergency Board, recommending that the railroads withdraw their notices requesting a wage reduction, the railroads are generally expected to concede and the Government is expected to take steps looking toward some relief for the carriers.

WAGES AND HOURS

The operation of the Wages and Hours law began in marked contrast to the fanfare and furor which marked the beginning of the NRA. However, it might be remembered that the ballyhoo in connection with the NRA was largely necessary to whip up the morale of the people and business generally.

BATTLESHIPS

The Navy Department has prepared a construction program for which Congress will be asked to appropriate funds. The general idea is that it will call for at least a dozen new destroyers, perhaps as many submarines, several cruisers and possibly two or more battleships. If this proves correct, the two battleships will be in addition to the two new building in navy yards, the three for which bids were opened last week, and another to be built in a Government yard. This would give the Navy eight 30,000-ton battleships under construction at the same time. The two ships being constructed in the navy yards are to be named the Washington and the North Carolina, and the next four will be named Massachusetts, Indiana, Alabama, and South Dakota, respectively.

Forgery and fraud has been waging through Kentucky and more especially in this immediate section for many weeks and came to light about two weeks ago when a loan company notified Wesley Fultz, coach of the Soldier graded school, that a payment had become due on his note for borrowed money, and Miss Opal Tabor of this city was asked to make payments on her overdue account, neither of whom had ever owed this concern. Suspicion began to arouse over the matter and then letters began to fill the mail daily of something like a dozen or more teachers of this section where their names had been used to borrow money from finance companies over the state ranging from Ironton to Louisville, Ky.—Carter County Herald.

Origin of Ostracism

The Athenian method of exiling a person was introduced after the fall of the family of Pisistratus. If the assembly decided a person was endangering the public welfare it set a day for voting. When the polling took place each voter put into an urn a potsherd (ostrakon) marked with the name of one he wished ostracized. The person named on the most ostraca was exiled, unless less than 6,000 votes were cast. The exile lasted normally 10 years.

WEST LIBERTY SCHOOL NOTES

Fifth and Sixth grade news:

Last Friday, October 28, Mrs. Byrd, teacher of the fifth grade, and Miss Cox, teacher of the sixth grade, took their pupils for a hike. Carrying their lunch boxes which were filled to the brim with weiners, bread, pickles, marshmallows and cakes.

They hiked to the top of the Pansy Bed Hill, where they unloaded their packs and in a few minutes you could hear the roaring and crackling of bon fires and smell the weiners and marshmallows roasting and the merry shouts and yells of the children. They would have told you they were celebrating an Indian summer as the Indians and Pilgrims did long ago.

After lunch several games were played. Then hiking back to school in time for the busses. Each child declared they had a good time and thanked their teachers for the picnic.

CROCKETT BASKETBALL

In view of the fact that the gym hasn't as yet reached completion, the Crockett basketball season opened officially a few weeks ago, of course, still relying on the grimy earth for a floor, the pine trees for goal posts and a canopy of pine needles for the ceiling.

The anticipation of using the gym, no doubt, has been great; but despite all these handicaps the squad has shown a fine spirit of cooperation.

Candidates for the team this year include: Ernest Hutchinson, Glen Ison, Donald Skaggs, Newt Ferguson, Bradford Ison, Callous Ison, Leonard Smith, Stanley Gilliam, Gussie Ison, Wendell Williams, Braskew Gilliam, Hearst Holbrook, Ford Ferguson, and Walter Lyon.

Improvement among the boys has been shown, however, I realize too much so early in the season, is not to be expected. Some equipment has been purchased for the ball team and we hope to complete it in the near future.

The following games have been played thus far:

October 18, Crockett 31—Flat Gap 16
October 21, Crockett 43—Ezel 16
October 23, Crockett 34—Royalton 19
September 2, Crockett 26—Flat Gap 18

The Parent-Teachers Association will hold its third meeting of the year in the High School Auditorium Monday night, November 14, at 7 p.m. A good program has been prepared.

Miss Lena McClure, a former teacher of the Morgan County High School, was a visitor in our school Monday.

The Morgan County High School Basketball Team won over the Ezel Team Thursday night, 19-16. Our second team won by a score of 16-11.

The High School Band surprised every one with a performance at the basketball game last Thursday night. Mr. Reeves has only been in West Liberty two months, and most of the members of the band did not even know at that time the name of the instruments they are now playing. The band is to be highly commended for the progress it is making.

Parents who have bought instruments are to be commended highly, since music is a vital part of one's education. Mr. Reeves is adding new members to the band according to the progress they are making on their instruments.

Parents should feel free at any time to discuss with the band director the progress their children are making.

Many thanks are given to the donors of this gift.

Rev. Cadle dedicated his Sunday morning services, November 6, 1938, to the West Liberty Girls' Residence NYA Project.

WPA EDUCATION

At last people appreciate the Adult Education program, they realize it is necessary and essential and should be a permanent part of our educational system.

I have been doing general adult work for some time, and know that this is a great field of work.

My work consists of a literary class which I meet with three times each week, a sewing group which meets once each week and individual instruction given in various homes.

A part of my literary group have been with me for two years. These pupils did not know all the alphabet and figures when they enrolled for work. During the past two months I have been furnished text books by the County Superintendent and I have started this group doing fifth grade work.

Part of the work is rather difficult for them but they really try hard and are making nice progress.

My sewing group consists of housewives. This group I have just organized during the past two months but every one shows much interest and I believe much good has been accomplished. The ladies do their own work and make such articles that are necessary and useful in the home.

I visit many homes for my individual work and do several types of work. I deal with people from the lower grades up to college students. Many appreciate a chance to obtain good reading material which I leave with them. This material consists of library books, magazines, health bulletins, and other pamphlets.

I have added several new members in this type of work during the past two months. Interest and attendance have increased in my work as a whole during this time.

MISCELLANEOUS FURNITURE

Every house has or had the standard bits of furniture, even though the number of pieces may have been reduced to the minimum. Beds, tables, chairs, stoves, cooking utensils—these were almost as low as one could go. In more stylish old-fashioned houses there may be an unlimited number of things that clutter up space and make a big display when an auction becomes necessary. It is this assortment of extra furniture that I somehow like to contemplate. People who have never lived in a home that was quite limited in money for furniture can hardly realize the thrill of making some luxury for the home.

Setees could be bought if one had the money. Fair ones could be made from the headboard and footboard of a discarded bed. The proper place for this home-made sofa or settee is the front porch, provided there is one. I have visited in many a home that had such a piece of furniture, often a rather creditable bit of workmanship.

The hammock suggests leisure, a thing that summer country life seldom had. "Boughten" hammocks cost too much. But fine results can be achieved with a few strands of wire and some barrel staves. Light-weight people can repose with impunity in these, but I have always feared them for myself.

When families were large, chairs sometimes were hardly plentiful enough for the living room and the dining-room-kitchen. Hence the head of the household made or had made a bench on the side of the table next to the wall, where the boys would sit. I have eaten many a square meal while sitting on a bench and somehow miss seeing one when I am visiting in a good-sized family.

One thing that ought to have got into poetry is the padded brick that holds back the doors. I have seen some of the best handwork done on the covers for these bricks, chain and briar stitching in bright colors, just like the silk embroidered quilt on the bed in the front room. Some one who is fond of collecting ought to collect these bricks and their coverings, as a sort of lesson in how rural artistry can make a thing of beauty out of a very unpromising and prosaic brick.

The whole matter of extra furniture illustrates how necessity can turn to its own uses things that otherwise would be ugly. Not nearly enough has been said of the simple but persistent artistry of the simple people, people who would never guess that they had artistic souls that expressed themselves in these little bits of extra furniture, made right in the home, with no thought of their being important in the history of art.—Kentucky Folklore Series.

CAN YOU FACE THE FUTURE

Every one of us is a new problem. There are no two of us alike in birthright, surroundings, or in the struggle we face to make good. All record of human reaction demonstrates the truth that we can either look at "the mud" or at "the stars."

Roughly speaking, I think the whole crowd falls into two classes. Those with the get-up-and-go who hardly need direction except to put on the breaks and to keep them from running away with themselves. They are few. All the rest need pulling, pushing, coaxing and many other varieties of personal service, much of which is frequently impossible to give. Perhaps the one outstanding thing they all need is self direction and self understanding.

There comes a stage in the tides of life when the call is clear to lay a course into the uncharted seas of our future. However, inadequately prepared we may feel or blissfully ignorant we may be of the shoals and the storms that upset the trip to our ports of our destiny, there comes a tide with which we must sail.

It is the business of education and training to equip us as fully as possible for this trip. Outside help can give us much, but it cannot supply the captain of the ship, who must be you at your helm, and me at mine.

We all talk about success, of luck, and other great things in life. Let us keep in mind the most successful do the least talking. Either they may be too busy to talk, or it may be they don't want to risk giving away the secret to their success.

Here then personality plays an important part as to whether we will be a success or a failure. Personality is partly inherited, and partly the result of our environment, but the biggest part of it is the product of our own keenness and interest in our reactions.

It can be had, and it must be developed to make good in the teaching profession. The teacher who is liked is the teacher who makes an easy job of disciplinary and instructional processes. She is a teacher because of her personality, a misfit if she lacks it.

"That man or woman, who persists in intelligently and carefully, carrying on, sincerely doing his or her best, what ever the task may be, in full confidence of the result, can hardly hope too high or dare too much."

Generally by personality we distinguish one from another. It is what makes you, you; and me, me. "Personality is what we are, what we want to be and can be, and what others believe we are." We can no more hide good personality than we can imitate it. We are what we are. To others we are what we make them feel and believe we are. Our every look, step, act and word tells others something about us. Silently, all around us, all the time, we are being measured for better or for worse, by our personality.

Let me say in conclusion that we daily check ourselves, let us make an effort to cultivate good personality traits, so that we will be better fitted in making a worthy journey through life.—MAYE LEMASTER

CANNEL CITY SCHOOL NEWS

The Cannel City Basketball team plays its opening game against Salsversville Thursday, November 15, at Cannel City. We would be glad to have a large crowd out to see the game and help boost the boys.

The P. T. A. held its regular meeting Monday night, November 7. There was a large crowd present. They voted to donate the basketball boys enough money to buy a basketball and some of the things that they need so badly. The Senior class had charge of the program. They gave a one-act play, "To Tell the Truth" and some special music.

The pupils in Mr. Peyton's room went on a picnic last week. They toasted marshmallows, played games and reported a nice time.

The teachers here attended the teachers' conference at West Liberty last Friday.
